

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

A system, for use with a broadband network, includes information means for obtaining information relating to network performance, and parameter means, coupled to the information means, for parameterizing the network performance information, with parameters providing information about network performance over time.

10

15